THE IMPOSSIBLE DREAM

To dream the Impossible Dream,
To fight the unbeatable foe,
To bear with unbearable sorrow,
To run where the brave dare not go.

To right the unrightable wrong,
To love pure and chaste from afar,
To try when your arms are too weary,
To reach the unreachable star!

This is my quest,
To follow that star,
No matter how hopeless,
No matter how far;
To fight for the right
Without question or pause,
To be willing to march into hell for a heavenly cause!

And I know, if I'll only be true
To this glorious quest,
That my heart will lie peaceful and calm,
When I'm laid to my rest,
And the world will be better for this;
That one man, scorned and covered with scars,
Still strove with his last ounce of courage,
To reach the unreachable stars.

Mancha"

The Impossible Dream

It may not make it across the sea,
This frail craft bearing the soul of me;
The winds are rough and the waves are high,
And the sea has defeated stronger than I.
But I cannot wait for the winds to still,
So I set my sails and heave to with a will—
And I battle the waves, and the waves fight back,
The night is dark and the skies are black,
And I may go down in the rolling tide—
But I will not fail—for I will have tried.

Helen Lowrie Marshall

To dream the Impossible Dream,
to fight the unbeatable foe,

There never was a good war or a bad peace.

Benjamin Franklin

We live in a troubled and confused world. People the world over are treading softly, nervously awaiting the next trouble spot to erupt; all wondering what internal problem will explode in their midst and shatter their mask of pseudo-complacency. As Americans, we too face the unexpected eruption of some suppressed mushrooming monster of tension and hatred. The summer of 1967 saw racial bloodshed engulf many of our major cities. When will we find the peace we desperately seek?

Opinions founded on prejudice are always sustained with the greatest violence.

To right the unrightable wrong, to love pure and chaste from afar,

Many people hold special ideals for the future. Most of them would welcome a world of peace in which they could raise their families and enjoy the company of their friends.

Some see the teaching profession as an important role for shaping the future generations into a peace-loving, and peace-keeping, society. These individuals will have every opportunity to achieve success and fulfill their hopes for world peace. For peace-loving teachers with knowledge and understanding of human relations can steer the lonely, unloved child in our society from a trail of self-destruction to a path of acceptance and hope. In the hands of these individuals will be catapulted the heirs to the future. They can teach their students love—or hate. They can nurture thoughtfulness of action—or thoughtlessness. They can sow seeds of tolerance—or prejudice. So many important ideals can be planted and nourished during the school years, the formative years. These ideals will save—not destroy—our society and the world.

Men are four:

He who knows not and knows not he knows not, he is a fool – shun him;

He who knows not and knows he knows not, he is simple – teach him;

He who knows and knows not he knows, he is asleep – wake him;

He who knows and knows he knows, he is wise – follow him!

Lady Isabel Burton

As students in education we have set goals which we hope to attain. Some goals are immediate, such as plans for teaching that have already been cemented by a contract with a school district. Others are long-term, including the plans of marriage made by college sweethearts and the desire to have a roomful of kids all their own. Some goals are higher in comparison with others. Some people simply have bigger plans. But all these goals are alike in that they define future plans for the people who hold them.

Some of us may use the teaching profession as a stepping-stone into new areas of concentration and acceleration. Some may have a hand in planning model schools for our future generations. Some will grow old in the teaching profession. The goals still exist and we must seek the fulfillment of them.

This is my quest, to follow that star,...

One of the favorite quotes of Roben J. Maaske, former president of OCE until his death in 1955, stands on a wall in the entrance foyer of our library. The plaque, presented to the school in his memory by the senior class of 1956, reads:

As future teachers, we are assuming important positions in our society, for we must shape the intellectual, physical, and most importantly perhaps, the social attitudes of these young Americans we will teach. We face a big responsibility, but we must, and will succeed if we remain committed to the ideals of the teaching profession, the characteristics we hold which identify the "good" teacher.

No matter how hopeless, no matter how

We are students, and as students we exist in a transient state of being, not quite academically qualified for our teachers certificate, yet not entirely foreign to the occupation that will draw our attention in the years to come. We've taken a step in the direction of accomplishment. Some of us have already passed across the imaginary boundary that separates teachers from students, while others have moved gradually towards that boundary with two or three years of teacher preparation behind them. Many have just started. Some have failed along the way, not because they didn't want to succeed or because they couldn't "make the grade," but because something else was more important. Maybe their dedication will change and the desire to become a teacher and seek the fulfillment of that impossible dream will once more stir their mind and heart.

There are also those who have followed the beaten path automatically, half-heartedly pursuing the achievement of a college degree, not knowing why they want it or what it holds, just feeling that its custody in their possession gives them security for their future.

If we work upon marble, it will perish; if we work upon brass, time will efface it; if we rear temples, they will crumble into dust; but if we work upon immortal minds, if we imbue them with principles, with the just fear of God and love of our fellowmen, we engrave on those tablets something which will brighten to all eternity.

At times, the work load of college classes can overwhelm a student; often relief from the tensions of failing to meet assignment deadlines is sought in strolls through the campus and surrounding areas.

Many students have discovered the beauty and silence of a late night walk. Minds laden with troubles and frustrations can find escape during the nocturnal outing.

The campus offers a welcoming landscape for the troubled student. Benches dot the newer buildings layout and offer a place of rest in the seclusion of the night. There the student may seek the solitude he needs within the surroundings of the campus. Those who have enjoyed the solitude of lengthy walks out Church Street or Warren Street may have passed by some of this scenery. And whether the stroller is a loner or prefers the company of a silent companion, the typical "teacher" gains a great deal of mileage (per feet) during the long school year.

These woods are lovely, dark and deep,
But I have promises to keep,
And miles to go before I sleep,
And miles to go before I sleep.

Christmas on campus is as traditional as the trek to Grandma's house Christmas Day for the family get-together. Lights glistening from dorm windows and trees bedecked with dorm-made ornaments are just a part of the scenery on the campus heralding Christmas' arrival.

This year, under the earnest direction of Todd sophomore Gayna Meyers, a drive was initiated to light the giant Sequoia tree in the center of campus. With the enthusiasm shown by the campus' seven dorms and the support of the administration, special lights were purchased and the tree was officially lighted in formal ceremonies, marking the beginning of a new Christmas tradition.

Other highlights of this festive season were the annual presentation of Handel's "Messiah" by the Concert Choir, and the Wassail Party, where parents, townspeople, and students gather to sing carols and enjoy the communal spirit of Christmas.

To everything there is a season.

An unexpected, but fully appreciated snowstorm interrupted many students from faithful attention to their studies and classes. The seven inch total of snow dumped abundantly throughout the campus was a welcome addition to the surroundings.

Snowball fights and brisk grade school games recalled the carefree years of childhood and students in teacher education relearned the special joy of a snowstorm in the activities they enjoyed during the short but pleasant stay of the snow.

But, like all good things that come to an end, the snow quickly melted and the campus was again returned to the normal and the students resumed their studies and class attendance.

Snow Bunnies: Terry Wood and Nikki Omans.

We are preparing for the future now. Our studies and educational achievements are important—but so are our leisure times spent in the company of good friends. We are old enough to accept the responsibility of college and living independently, but young enough to enjoy the pleasures of youth—and get away with it.

The snow that falls around us now brings with it the promise of enjoyment and sharing the fun of a friendly skirmish with our college companions. The snow that falls around us in the future will find us gazing upon our students enjoying the falling snow. But inwardly we will relive the happy times we knew because a teacher never really grows old as long as he can remember and identify with his students. And a good teacher must never forget the fun and excitement of a snow storm to his youthful charges, he must always share the joys and sorrows of his students' endeavors. If he can, his purpose as a teacher is complete. To quote Ruffini again, "The teacher is like a candle which lights others in consuming itself."

To reach the unreachable stars.

We embark soon on that journey of life. It's nothing really new, nothing really difficult. We've experienced it a number of years already. But now it becomes a new challenge. For now we've accepted a role in society, constructively dedicating our time to the community as a whole. We've accepted the challenge of training young people physically, spiritually, academically, and socially. We must not fail.

the year in review

OCE 1968 is history. Another chapter has been written and preserved in her record book. The mark of approval or sneer of disapproval won't be given till the full evaluation of the year is complete. It's too soon to know how history will record the school year 1967-68. But we can review the past year by reliving, through pictures, the Year 1968 in Review.

OCE students knew a wide perspective. They tasted the glory of victory and felt the pain of defeat. They knew success and failure. As students, they were unpredictable. Their achievements were both admirable and disheartening. But as people they were even more unpredictable, showing in their actions responses ranging from one end of the spectrum to the other. They knew extremes of happiness and sadness. They grew and, although progression at times was blocked with seemingly unsurmountable odds, they progressed.

Academically, we explored our surrounding in the hope of finding some answer that would show just cause for the situations we found ourselves in, around the world and here at home. We took pride in our endeavors. OCE was named one of the five outstanding teacher education colleges in the country by the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education (AACTE). And although we suffered with the growing pains associated with being the fastest growing 4-year state institute of higher education, as 750 new students helped swell the attendance on campus to nearly 2800, we rejoiced in the recognition this brought to our campus.

Structurally, we watched the new buildings being constructed to meet the future onslaught of students. An eighth dormitory was being completed as school ended that would provide housing for 175 additional campus students and a new wing on the Library more than doubled the capacity of the previously existing building. In the coming year, a Science-Mathematics Building will be constructed to house these combined departments. And the future holds much more in store with the planned addition of a Fine Arts Building to the campus.

Activities Section

Socially, we grew cautiously, hoping to find the right environment in which to find happiness and pleasure in life. And in a world filled with trouble and hate, we sought the peace and quiet in a friendly atmosphere the human soul desperately seeks. On campus, many differing activities offered this companionship. We shared joy and sorrow with these friends. An overabundance of sorrow ebbed over the campus during the year. A friend of the campus was fatally injured representing our school at an athletic contest. Bruce Bradshaw's death saddened the school as a whole. But more sorrow was yet to come. Another campus friend would pass from among us. Donna Buck gave much of herself to the school through her active participation in student government. Again the campus wept. Nationally, we suffered with the rest of the world. Assassins bullets would snuff out the lives of a Negro civil rights leader who wanted peace between whites and blacks and a youthful, vigorous senator who had won the hearts of many college youths throughout the nation. But, as is true of human nature, the self fought back and, turning from the evil that it realizes exists, sought anew the peace it knows exists too.

Athletically, we excelled as two district championships and four conference titles, one as co-champions, fell to the Wolf teams. The Golf team won a trip to the nationals at Bemidji, Minnesota by defeating Southern Oregon by four strokes for the district title. The baseballers hopes of a berth in the NAIA national championships fell one game short of reality when they lost the final game to determine the West Coast representative to the playoffs against Central Washington. But, all in all, it was a very good year for sports at OCE. Other conference titles besides the one to the baseball team went to the Track and Field team, Men's Tennis and the Football team.

OCE 1968 is history. Our "Impossible Dream" is in the final stages. When it becomes a reality, we will, hopefully, have achieved what we sought. But, should the results be long in their fulfillment, we should not despair. We must face the future with determination and courage; determination to change that which we can act upon and courage to accept that which we can not. "To dream the impossible dream ... this is my quest"

Faculty-Student Picnic Begins New Student Week Planning

Students returning to campus early to help Student Council with New Student week were treated to a joint picnic with faculty members and their families. This new approach to convening the formal activities planned under the direction of student leaders at the annual spring retreat was co-chairmanned by Marilyn McCasland and Nancy Ross.

About 300 returning students and faculty members and their families feasted at the picnic, which was held at nearby Helmick Park. The crowd, larger and hungrier than was expected, seemed to enjoy re-establishing acquaintances that had been dormant during the long summer.

New Student Orientation 1967 Style!!!

Originally scheduled as an event for New Student Orientation, the pushball contest matching the freshmen versus the upperclassmen was finally played several weeks later. A failure of delivery cancelled the pre-planned frosh week activity.

But upon arrival, the gigantic canvas covered balloon was decorated with the character of a grinning wolf, the campus mascot, and paraded around the campus by several energetic students anxious to do battle with the freshmen. Little did they know that the real battle would come with the balloon itself. After unsuccessfully maneuvering the large oval throughout the entire first half of play, the adept upperclassmen, gearing the drive of the balloon down the football field with the force of a helping wind, pushed the ball across the goal line twice in the second half to defeat the freshmen 2-0.

What is hoped to become an annual frosh week event got off to an enthusiastic reception in the first battle royal for pushball supremacy.

New Student Orientation is held at the beginning of Fall Term each year with the idea of introducing the incoming freshman or transfer student to OCE and her traditions. It's planned on a tight schedule that includes introduction of key administration members as well as the student government officers, the traditional frosh harassings during midnight rituals, and the formal initiation in a solemn ceremony whereby the new freshmen become an important part of the campus.

This year 750 new students made the adjustment to college life in its various modes and forms. Dorm residents found the initiation ceremonies a key time to make new friends and accept the role that they would be expected to fill as members of a large academic and social family.

During free times in the busy orientation schedule, many freshmen toured the campus surroundings, some of the more adventuresome journeying as far as the Monmouth Reservoir where nightly submarine races are run. Others took the free time to meet the faculty members present and discuss the educational programs offered in their particular field of study.

But between the scheduled activities, many frosh found time to write their innermost thoughts and apprehensions home to family and friends. Was your reaction favorable?

Enrollment

Final fall term enrollment figures stood at 2,787 on October 7, according to the figures released by the Registrar's office. The total represents a 14.0 percent increase over last years' enrollment of 2,445 fall term.

Women registrants numbered 1,542 for fall term; an increase of 19.7 percent over the 1,288 registered a year ago. Men students totaled 1,245; a 7.6 percent increase over last years 1,157.

The 14.0 percent increase again makes O.C.E. the fastest growing institute in the state system of higher education.

Orientation Ends, Wolves shake

With the traditional formal initiation ceremony, New Student Orientation comes to an end. The freshmen have proven themselves eager to become a part of O.C.E. and accept a role in the rapidly increasing campus family.

Dr. Rice, in his keynote address to the assembled freshmen, issued the 500-plus audience a challenge to be themselves during their stay at their new home and to enjoy college while they achieve.

The formal ceremony was followed by a reception which introduced the new students to their deans, faculty heads, and student government officers.

Classes Begin Quakers

Cheryl Hames distributes programs to Wolf fans and visitors.

The Wolfpack made their 1967 conference debut against the George Fox Quakers. After a pre-season win over the Alumni and a stunning 21-20 loss to Pacific University, the Wolves began their pursuit of a repeat Oregon Collegiate Conference football crown with a 27-14 victory over the Quakers.

Smarting from the narrow defeat to Pacific, Coach Bill McArthur did some shuffling around in order to "utilize certain outstanding capabilities of individual performers" in the Fox game and the results proved positive.

The Wolves struck quickly in building up a 21-0 half time lead and were never in scoring danger from the Fox team. The win was witnessed by a cheering home crowd eager to support another conference championship team.

The victory made it eighteen wins in a row over the Quakers and gave the Wolves their first conference victory of the new season.

"The Roar of the Greasepaint ..." first opened at the OCE Theater on July 28 as part of the Summer Arts Festival. The final performance was held during New Student Orientation making it the longest running play in OCE history.

The musical, a work combining the talents of Leslie Bricusse and Anthony Newley, also known for "Stop the World I Want to Get Off," is a comic parable about a little man, a symbol of all the little men in the world, and his battle with his symbolic oppressor, society, in a game where the rules are always changing.

The musical was well attended and seemed well accepted by the campus. "The Roar of the Greasepaint ..." was probably one of the better all school productions offered by the music and drama departments in a long time.

Gene Pfeifer tries his hand at darts.

Friday the 13th isn't a jinx. Not to the Junior Class, anyway. Their class carnival came off like a charm as nearly 250 participants attended the Student Center based "Criderville Capers."

The Carnival, a traditional Junior Class fundraising project, was lifted out of the humdrum to the gala under the careful planning of class commissioner Lynn Freshour.

A fast-moving, loud-playing serpentine announced the coming Carnival during the week preceding the Friday the 13th event. And the enthusiasm carried by members of the Junior Class passed on to the rest of the Student Body.

With the Student Center Lounge area decorated in bright and gaily colored crepe paper streamers, the various booths began functioning to a large crowd awaiting the opening of the Carnival-Dance.

Included in the activities were a wheel of fortune, a dunk tank, a dart toss, and a cake walk. The dance following the Carnival featured the "Shugah," a campus combo, and was highlighted by a dance contest which was won by 'Scotty' Peterson and Sandy Harris.

Saturday, the 14th, the Junior Class treasury was enriched by approximately $200, making "Criderville Capers" the most profitable carnival in the school's history.

Carnival Held Cavaliers 41-0

What was tabbed by some sportswriters as a toss-up game proved to be a walk-away for the Wolfpack, as they buried the Seattle Cavaliers 41-0, on October 7th.

The Cavaliers, an amateur football team from the Seattle area, had defeated George Fox College 66-2, while the Wolves dropped the Quakers 27-14. The awesome 66 points had thrown some fear into the Cavaliers opposition and sportswriters were confused as to how future games would go for the black and white garbed team.

But the Wolves destroyed any delusions of grandeur the Cavaliers might have had with the 41-0 victory. Scoring easily and almost at will, the Wolfpack built a 7-0 first period edge into a 27-0 halftime lead.

Strategy planning as replacements line the sides.

Dave Sturgis scored the first two touchdowns on passes from quarterback Sydow, a sophomore from North Marion. In the following plays, Jim Crump and Bill Caddy, carried the ball across the goal line to help build the 27-0 halftime score.

Dave Snook and Tom Springsteen added the final two touchdowns. Larry Koenig, the Wolfpack's kicking specialist, booted 5 PATs during the game.

The Wolves next game is October 14 at Ashland against Southern Oregon. The battle is billed as the fight for the O.C.C. Championship.

Sadie Hawkins ran wild as Collecto Coeds transformed the CES gym into Dogpatch. The girls had their chance to hook a guy by the collar and lead him off to the "Joy Juice Jump." The traditional hokum dance was a success as is usually the case when the girls finally get the chance to go out with the guy she really wants to.

The selection of the campuses most eligible spinster and bachelor is announced at the annual girl-ask-boy dance. This year's winners were the freshman candidates, Marlie Russell and Dave Penney. The Sadie Hawkins court was composed of: sophomores, Lorna McQuery and Tom Endersby; juniors, Rita Havelly and Dan Carter; and seniors, Karen Collins and Bill Hastie.

Reigns Again Re-forms

Ann Peterson, a senior in secondary education from Eugene, took the position and formed a committee to write a charter of the off campus students. After many unforeseen delays, the charter was finally approved by the Constitutional Review Board in December and began functioning with the formation and selection of members of the off campus council.

Off campus, the designation given to the 800 plus students living outside the dormitory complexes, again tried organization this year. Previous attempts have been futile, but Student Council felt it imperative to tie this large body to the school as is the dorm population and decided, during last spring's retreat, to grant a seat at large on Student Council to an off campus representative.

This large body of students, for some unintelligible reason, remains apathetic to the demands of a functioning organization. With so many of its students involved in other areas (class offices or some other form of student government) it is hard to understand why off campus always has such a big problem getting organized. The know-how exists, the participants are plentiful, but the initiative seems to be seriously lacking.

But the fact remains. Off campus failed to actively participate as a block of students representing a living group. A few caring individuals will always be there to bail the good name of off campus out of the mud. But they could use some reinforcement. Good intentions are not enough. Maybe with a little more concern and participation on the part of more off campus students, this organization can wield the power it should rightly carry. Maybe Christmas will come in June next year.

Even though Willamette University again won the blood drive competition waged annually between OCE and the Salem school, the campus had its most successful campaign ever.

Hundreds of students gave a pint of blood during the drive. More people seem to be realizing that the feeling of giving is self-satisfying too, as many students seemed to be overcoming any squeamish feelings they previously held and large numbers turned out to donate.

The competition among our own living groups probably accounts for the success of the drive on campus. A small plaque is given to the living group which has the greatest number of participants, donors as well as those that are judged unable to give. The plaque was won by Cottage.

Pointed Success Wolfpack 7-0

Simon Fraser University of Vancouver, British Columbia capitalized on the Wolves inability to do everything but score as they stole a 7-0 victory from under the Wolfpack's nose.

Defeated in the statistical categories, the Clansmen used a second quarter score by Wayne Holm and a PAT by Dave Cutler to take the lead and hold it during the second half of the game for the victory.

Although the Wolves led in first downs 10 to 3, in rushing yardage 233 to 72, and in total yardage 292 to 137, the Pack was unable to score. They also intercepted four Clansmen passes. But bad luck ruled the game for the Wolves, who had one touchdown pass-play intercepted in the end zone, and lost two other scoring opportunities on fumbles.

Simon Fraser returned to Vancouver with another stolen victory. Last year the Clansmen defeated the then undefeated Wolves 14-7 in the first meeting between the two schools.

In the battle royal played last weekend at Ashland the Wolfpack came back with the laurels crown after defeating the Red Raiders of Southern Oregon 20-7 on their home field. The win put CCE in first place in conference standings with a 2-0 record.

Homecoming—with a magic spell that unites the campus with happiness and merriment—once again captured the campus' spirit of fun. Under the direction of Gary Martin, a senior from Salem, the 1967 version of the annual weekend of tradition lived up to its theme, "Come Alive."

Its history on the campus has been long and illustrious. The first recorded Homecoming was in 1939. In 1940, the Wolfpack football team capped their undefeated season with a 20-0 Homecoming victory over Reed. The year 1951 saw the first Homecoming Court chosen to reign over the festivities. The traditional announcement of "Who's Who" was first begun in 1954 and remains one of the highlights of Homecoming today.

But enough of history. Homecoming '67 is not yet history. And those who participated will probably easily recall some of the pleasure and excitement these pictures may convey.

As usual, Homecoming was crowded with the hectic schedule of activities that seem naturally to go with the idea of Homecoming. Friday night, nine nervous young ladies awaited the selection of the one girl who would reign over the coming festivities. When all the excitement was over, a dark-haired elementary education major from Portland, Ruth Muldoon, wore the queen's crown and the living group she represented—Todd Hall—ignited with reveling.

The Homecoming game, spiced by the halftime antics of TKB and the pomp and color of the marching band and the dance team, the Woofettes, was a disappointment as the E.O.C. Mountaineers pulled a stunning 7-6 upset victory from the Wolves.

But the highly-polished performance of the Four Preps at the evening's Homecoming Concert and the Ball in the commons provided a fitting end for the successful '67 Homecoming.

Chairman Gary Martin and his committees provided a wealth of activities which really made the campus—COME ALIVE!!!

During the intermission of the concert, Bob Olsen, Interdorm Council president, announced the Homecoming awards. Butler Hall won the outstanding dormitory award for participation for the second year in a row. Gentle Hall won the lawn sign competition with a giant Jack-in-the-box display (picture on page 51). Off campus was awarded a special certificate of merit for service "above and beyond the call of duty."

The hectic pace of Homecoming maintained itself through Friday and Saturday nights with the coronation of the Homecoming Queen and the Four Preps concert and Homecoming ball.

The gala weekend came to an end with the arrival of the time for the Ball. An estimated 250 couples danced to the music of the Don Costi Quartet. With the advent of the midnight hour, the magic of Homecoming faded for another year.

TKB Barrels over Mountaineers

TKB, with their own "Homecoming Court" managed to put the crowd in hysterics at the 1967 Homecoming game. The court was composed of: Petunia Pill, a pregnant secretary to a leading manufacturer of birth control pills; Sally Seagram's, a buxom young Miss who was slightly alcoholic; a hippie-type young woman with the initials of her name being LSD (what a coincidence!); and a fourth campus beauty which was a combination of the three previous girls.

Petunia Pill and Sally Seagrams

They arrived in their limousine (see picture) and one by one they crawled out of the truck, with a style that couldn't even be matched by Mrs. Miller's singing, and were presented to the crowd. As each was presented, a clapometer was used to register the popularity of each girl. Petunia Pill won by an overwhelming score on the clapometer and at the moment decided the time was right for Petunia Pill, Jr. to be born.

The girls all staggered back to the truck and each with her own grace climbed back in the truck and were chauffeured around the track.

Halftime Crowd Upset Wolves

The Wolfpack suffered their first conference setback of the year in a stunning upset to the EOC Mountaineers, 7-6. The game, played before 3,000 Homecoming spectators, dropped the Wolves into a tie with Southern Oregon for the conference lead.

The Wolves tried to overcome the 7-6 margin tacked on them in the first half of the game but were unable to stop the Mounties. The decided favorites in the game, the Wolves seemed stunned at their inability to move the ball against the slower but stronger Mountaineer line. Several times the Wolfpacks drives faltered under the stronger Mountie defense.

The inability of the Wolves to move ahead with a field goal after several unsuccessful attempts was probably the hardest pill to swallow. That and the fact that George Fox had beaten the Mounties 7-0 made the loss especially hard to take.

Variety seemed to be the key word for the talent displayed in the Intercollegiate Knights Pageant. The IK's assembled to select a Duchess to represent the Wolf Knight Chapter at the regional conference held this year at Linfield. The candidates are judged on poise, beauty and talent. The audience at the final judging was entertained with pantomimes, serious and humorous interpretative dialogues and a gymnastic exhibition.

In his first year as Cross Country coach, Don Spinas faced the job of rebuilding a team riddled by graduations and departures. Only Arnie Powell returned from last year's top five. Despite the inexperience the wolf pack compiled a respectable 2-3 dual meet win-loss record, and placed 3rd in conference. Placing on the all conference and all district teams were junior, Arnie Powell (2nd in conference and 6th in district); and freshman Carl Rodney (5th in conference and 5th in district).

Ewan Mitton, an assistant professor of music in the campus music department, presented a recital in the Music Hall Auditorium for students and townspeople. Mrs. Mitton, a well-known and revered Salem soprano, presented works from the bel canto and baroque periods of music history.

Following the high quality of most faculty recitals, Mrs. Mitton was accompanied on the piano by Dorothy Lee of Salem and by Verna Duncan, an instructor in music in the campus music department, on the flute.

Mrs. Mitton has made several appearances with the Seattle Opera Association in "Fidelio" and with the Portland Opera Association in "Carmen."

Among the selections sung were Oscar's two arias from the Verdi opera, "The Masked Ball," Cherubino's two arias from Mozart's "The Marriage of Figaro," and Urbian's aria from Meyerbeer's "The Huguenots."

Leah The Forsaken

The plot thickens as Polly prods Old Meg for information.

In producing "Leah the Forsaken," the drama department captured a by-gone era of entertainment. It is an excellent example of a 1860 melodrama.

Leah, Lionel, and Bullstrode are the typically morally black and white characters whose natures do not change. The evil scheming of the villain and the virtuous principles of the heroine produce the directive, the causes, the action, and the drama is broken in its pseudo-intensity only by the comical, and equally unbelievable, nature of such characters as old Tim Fogg.

This type of nineteenth century melodrama has its only value in the fact that it represents one area in the history of drama and in that it serves as a humorous contrast to the modern drama. It belongs in the category with "Batman," whose simplicity and unrealistic nature serves as its only saving grace because it is a welcome change from the all too realistic and thought provoking forms of entertainment today.

The OCE drama department seems to thrive on the bizarre and the ridiculous. The choice of plays are all from one particular mold. Even the musicals selected are farcical and far out. The campus playgoers attend the OCE productions more out of habit than for the appeal that one particular play may have for them. And as for spending an entertaining evening, most seem to alight from the theater not really knowing or caring if they have actually been entertained.

Dad's Day is the first of three weekends set aside for visitations by parents of campus students. During these weekends, the parents are the guests of the college for a day of scheduled events planned with the parents in mind.

Besides introducing most parents to the campus for the first time, the day is also used as an opportunity for the Mom's and Dad's clubs to recruit new members and plan money-making activities.

Art Show, Game Linfield upends

Dad's Day attracted some 300 parents, most of them visiting the campus for the first time as parents of new students. Most visit out of interest. Parents of upperclassmen seldom visit the campus after the first couple of special weekends. Whether they lose interest because their kids don't invite them or they simply get bored with the scheduled events is unknown. The fact is that the number in attendance is very small.

The parents weekends are planned with the parents in mind. Dad's Day is held during the fall so fathers can enjoy a Wolfpack football game. Mom's Day activities usually include a tea and fashion show. The All Campus Sing is held during Folk's Festival. All these events are aimed at catching the parents interest and bringing them to our campus.

Encourage your parents to attend these special visitations set aside for them to see the campus and enjoy a day planned especially for them.

Wolfpack 42-28

The Wolfpack ended their 1967 football campaign with a non-conference loss to Linfield College, 42-28. Trailing at the end of the first quarter 14-7, the Wolves gave highly touted Linfield the scare of their lives as they kept right behind the Wildcats throughout the first three quarters.

It wasn't until the fourth quarter that Linfield started to pull away. Three quick touchdowns put the Wildcats out in front 36-21 and they remained ahead although the Wolves threatened several times before scoring their last seven points.

The game was unusual in that ten PAT were scored for each of the ten touchdowns. The Wolfpack's final total yardage was 278 compared to 415 for the victorious Linfield team.

The game ended the 1967 football season and evened the Wolves record at 4-4. The Wolves tied for conference honors with the Red Raiders of Southern Oregon, each posting a 3-1 mark.

Staff & Key uses Dave Sturgis

The All American Ball is traditionally the Winter formal at which time the selection of Mr. All American is made. It is sponsored by Staff and Key, a women's service honorary.

The ball this year used the theme "Cabaret des Masques" and featured a large balloon tree sewn together around a T-beam structure. Approximately 200 balloons and hours of labor went into the completion of the tree.

Staff and Key is one of the campuses better organizations. The All American is always one of the finest formal dances of the year and much deserved appreciation should be given this honorary.

The dance, which was attended by only 150 couples, also featured as part of its decorations large cardboard characters and beglittered Mardi Gras masks. Decorations chairman for the event was Maggi Rufener. Claudia Morrow handled the general chairmanship of the dance very ably.

A secondary education major, Sturgis was named to all-conference offensive and defensive first team berths in his first year as a member of the Wolfpack team. During his basketball career, Dave was twice voted membership to the conferences first team and received honorable mention in the All-American ratings.

Four senior men, including Sturgis, were nominated for the All American honor. They were: Bill Caddy, a football and basketball player from Hood River; Ken Lathen, a Eugene football player; and Al Mueller, a starting man on the basketball team from Portland.

Campus Ecumenical Movement calls Christians together.

The Campus Ecumenical Ministry was headed by President Karen Saunders at OCE this year. The purpose of the movement is to be a Christian presence within the OCE campus community. By presence the CEM understands itself to be calling campus Christians together and challenging them to be active and responsible participants in the life of the campus and in the issues in life to which the campus community must address itself. Through its fellowship and worship, its activities and periods of study, the Campus Ecumenical Movement hopes to join with the college in seeking ways to encourage the college community to respond to life by leading men to a fuller humanity.

'Pack Stuns Crowd, Hangs 112-97 loss

The OCE Wolfpack took second place at the 1967 annual NAIA District II Tip-Off Tournament. The first two nights of the tournament were held at Willamette University, and the action moved to Salem Armory for the final night of play.

In first night action the Wolves met the Lewis and Clark Pioneers. The half time score, with OCE in the lead, was 53-43. The Wolves continued to out-score the Pioneers with a 59-54 total for the second half. With the sound of the final gun, OCE had whipped Lewis and Clark 112-97. High scorers for the game were seniors Al Mueller and Bob Vogel with 24 points each. Close behind Mueller and Vogel were Bruce Bradshaw with 22 points, and Bob Sisk with 16.

In the second night of play the Wolves upset the Bearcats of Willamette with a final score of 78-74. The Bearcats led by 1 point at half time, but the Wolves battled back for a 42-37 victory over Willamette for the second half. High scorer for this game was Al Mueller with 16 points followed by Jim Costello and Bob Tone with 13 points each.

In the final night of action OCE met Linfield College, victor of the tournament games held in McMinnville. The Wolves led 40-39 at the end of the first half, but the Linfield Wildcats fought back for a 95-79 victory over the Wolves. Bob Tone led the Wolves in scoring with a total of 23 points. Vogel, Mueller, Bradshaw, and Parker followed with 12, 11, 10, and 8 points respectively.

Science-Math Building Planned

Artist's Drawing

With the plans and specifications for the new Math-Science building drawn up, bids for the construction of the 49,272 sq. ft. structure were received during the middle of spring term. Construction is scheduled to begin this summer and take approximately thirteen months to complete. The building should be ready for fall term 1969.

The new structure will contain 29 faculty offices, large science laboratories and three classrooms and one multi-purpose room that will seat 118 students. A green house will be built on the roof of the two story building.

Dr. Sidney Cohen

OCE Split

Dr. Sidney Cohen lectured to a capacity crowd in the Dining Commons on January 11, 1968. Dr. Cohen's presentation concerned LSD and the situation of its use in our society. According to Dr. Cohen, youth began taking this psychedelic drug in 1966, and it was then that subculture or the hippie "love" movement also began. LSD makes up 90% of the drugs being taken, says Cohen.

Dr. Cohen suggested that drug usage was beginning at a younger age now, but that he also believed we have passed the crest of LSD usage.

Dr. Cohen concluded by saying that we need to improve life and society, rather than "drop out" of it as LSD users do. A question and answer period followed Dr. Cohen's lecture.

SOC Series

OCE Wolf Bob Sisk attempts a rebound for the Wolves.

In their first league Basketball series the OCE Wolves split with the SOC Raiders. The first game was a 90-85 victory for the Raiders, but the Wolves came back for a 79-72 win over SOC. Due to a power failure in Monmouth the first game moved to Dallas High School.

The Raiders took the lead first, but the Wolves battled to tie the score, and then to take over the lead. After that the lead changed hands several times. Both teams had good shooting in their favor. By half time the Raiders had increased their lead to 11 points for a score of 48-37. The Wolves suffered foul trouble, and poor rebounding. During the second half OCE closed the gap against the Raiders, but foul trouble again hampered the Wolves. The final score for the first game was 90-85 in favor of SOC.

In the second night of play the picture changed. The Wolves took a quick lead, and never lost it. The half time score, with the Wolves leading was 39-32. The Wolves displayed both good shooting, and rebounding. High scorers for this game were Tone, Sisk, Vogel, and Fischer with 18, 17, 15, and 12 points respectively. The second night of action ended with a 79-72 victory for the Wolves.

Juniors Set Gypsy's

Games of chance intrigue all involved.

The Juniors struck again with a display of showmanship that would make Howard Hughes green with envy. Their version of the Dry Night Club was by far the best the campus has seen.

A traditional event for every Junior Class confronted with the task of making money for the prom, the class managed to lift a rather lifeless event out of the humdrum into the extraordinary.

Under the chairmanship of Lynn Freshour, Junior Class President, the affair copied a real night club setting, including the black leotarded hostesses as well as the usual games of chance. Periodic entertainment segments were offered throughout the two hour run of the night club part of the event by campus personalities. Then the class turned the "lounge" area of the night club into a dance floor and let the Sugah, a local combo, take over.

The Juniors have proven they have the know-how to sponsor a first class event.

Lamron - Period Wolves whip

In the last two years, the LAMRON has taken on the appearance of a college newspaper. Under the direction of Bob Cummins, the newspaper staff developed a format and routine that imitated professional journalism. The establishment of an editorial board was the outstanding accomplishment of the re-structuring. This board reflected a group effort in editorial policy instead of the personality of the editor as had beforehand been the result.

Under the new editor, Nancy Rainey, the policies continued, in a somewhat revised manner. These improvements undoubtedly help bring a First Class award rating from the Associated Collegiate Press. The paper does look like a college paper now. Too bad it doesn't read like one. The judges didn't rate the news reporting. If they did, the inaccuracy of reporting and the impertinence of news matter covered would reflect a different rating, and not an award-winning one either.

LAMRON's problem can almost solely be placed on editorial writers and the inaccuracy and misinformation they pedal in their articles. Their ideas have free reign and they spout off all the unsubstantiated views their hearts desire. Don't misunderstand the attack. Editorial writers are free to write what they choose. But when they attack something they should do so citing facts and not opinions based on falsehoods.

Perhaps it is unfortunate that so many students laugh at the idea of the LAMRON as the college newspaper. Perhaps it is unfortunate that people have lost their respect for the printed word a college newspaper can demand. The students and faculty are learning not to place much importance on the LAMRON.

With the advancements made in the past, possibly there is hope for further improvements with the inclusion of a copy editor who can proofread for proper spelling and usage, clarity and consistency of style. Maybe too, the editorials will reflect opinions based on fact. If not, the school may find itself fighting a libel suit. With more advancements along the line taken the last two years, the LAMRON might then not only look like a newspaper but will also sound like one.

Quakers 93-73

Tom Fischer attempts a two-pointer.

George Fox invaded the Wolves home territory for a one game stand Tuesday, January 30. The Wolfpack's record in conference play stood at 3 wins and 2 losses prior to the game. After the game ended, the Wolves held onto second place with a 93-73 win over the Quakers.

The Wolves jumped off to a 27-12 lead but the stubborn Quakers threw a scare into the fans as they steadily whittled the OCE lead down to 27-21. Then the Wolves started to hit and the Quakers slowed in the seesaw battle that lasted throughout the first half of play. The halftime score read 43-29.

Bob Vogel, the Wolves starting forward, set a new field goal record in the game, hitting 15 out of 22 attempts. The previous record of 14 was set in 1964 by Dave Pappin and Steve Rankin.

The Wolves hit on 37 of 84 field goal attempts for a .440 shooting average.

Friday night, January 26 saw the Wolves set three new team records in their 134-105 win over Warner Pacific of Portland. The total scoring output of 134 pts. eclipsed the old record of 112 set in December against Lewis and Clark. The team made 57 of 95 field goal attempts for the second game record. The old record stood at 48 buckets against George Fox. The total point output of the two teams, 239 points passed the previous mark of 220 set against Linfield in 1955.

The team mark for the season stands at 9-6 with the victory over George Fox.

Creative Take Two

The big upset came as heavyweight Dave Bowlin pinned two opponents in the match with Pacific. Other big scorers for the match were Hal Dyal, Mike Morgan, and Larry Koenig.

In the Warner Pacific-Cascade match Dave Bowlin was again the high scorer. Hal Dyal and Chuck Lundsford both defeated their opponents by decisions.

Final scores for the two matches were 31 to 8 for the Pacific match, and 24 to 11 in the Warner Pacific-Cascade match.

Fine Arts Festival Fantastically Festive

This year's annual Fine Arts Festival is possibly the final Fine Arts Festival.

The event was created three years ago by the 1966 Assemblies Commissioner, Marlene Greer, in an attempt to emphasize the variety of forms of entertainment. The campus would ring with culture for one week as the festival chairman introduced poetry readings, ballets, dramas, concerts, speeches, and art displays.

The week of culture is dying for lack of interest. The largest attended activity drew 50 people; most of the programs had less than 20.

A critic of the festival said there were too many programs for one person to attend. The wide variety of activities were not planned to appeal to all students, but each person should find at least one activity that they would enjoy. However, the attendance indicated that the events appealed to hardly anyone and therefore should be discontinued. The student body asks for controversial speakers and big name concerts to be brought to the campus. The type of events they ask for cost a minimum of $3,000. The attendance at the concerts and assemblies this year has been so poor that student council can not afford to take the chance of hiring famous people. Until the students show an interest and willingness to support the assemblies, big name artists can not be brought to OCE.

Campus Hosts Wolves Split

College-bound students visited the OCE campus on February 3, 1968 for the annual Preview Day. Kathy Hagstrom was general chairman of the day, and was aided by Susie Fujiyama, chairman of the Hootenany.

The day began with a general assembly during which visiting students were greeted by Bob Opperman, ASOCE president; and Mr. Jack Morton, Dean of Students. Keynote speaker was President Rice. He spoke on the topic "On being a College student in the 1960's." Robert Richards provided entertainment at the opening program.

During the afternoon students could attend sessions in areas of special interest to them, and ask any questions they had. Model classroom visitations were also scheduled. High school juniors were invited to attend panel discussions called "College ahead—A year to make ready!" An informal open house was also held in all dormitories on campus.

High Schoolers Mountie Series

All remaining hopes for a repeat conference title were shattered in the Wolfpack's series split with the Eastern Oregon Mountaineers. Although they easily defeated the Mounties in the first game of the two game series, the loss in the second game erased any chances the Pack had in repeating their 1966 conference championship.

The Wolves, fighting against terrible odds (the Pack had to win their last six games and Southern Oregon had to lose their final game to George Fox to clinch a tie), made a valiant second half come back that seemed surely to mean victory over the Mounties. But persistent buckets by three Mounties spelled defeat for the Wolves.

Vogel fires a two-pointer toward the basket.

With the Wolves loss to Eastern Oregon in this series, 91-86 and the two overtime victory of Southern Oregon over George Fox, the Wolves were eliminated from title contention.

The Pack stands at 7-wins and 4 losses in conference action and 12-8 overall for the season standing after the Mountie series.

"Ports of Paradise" was the theme chosen for the annual Hawaiian Club dance. The entertainment planned for the event was, as usual, very good and the organization, as always, well planned. The decorations included a souvenir shop of Hawaiian relics and state posters depicting the beauty of Hawaii. Following the entertainment portion of the "Ports of Paradise" was the dance.

Chairman for the event was Sharlene Viela.

It is too bad that more campus clubs don't follow the lead set by this outstanding organization. The members maintain a close contact with one another that helps the smooth functioning of the group and always seem more than willing to give a little more of their time to make the Hawaiian Club events a little better than any others. These individuals seem to realize that being a member of a club means active participation in the planning and follow up of the club's events. It is too bad more club members don't realize this.

Hui O Aloha Haw Crowd

The Juniors sponsored what is becoming a traditional event on the campus—a donkey basketball game. This year, the battle pitted the dormitory men students against their off-campus counterpart.

A disappointingly small crowd watched the laugh-packed events as educated college men fought a battle of the wits with the stubborn donkeys. "Whoa" and "giddup" don't seem to mean too much to these animals who much prefer to move when and where they want to.

A half time show featured several junior misses trying to charm the animals in obedience. But not even beauty works with these beasts as they remained as immobile for a pretty face as they did for a kick in the side.

The final outcome in the fun-filled battle seemed to show that the off-campus men could handle their animals better than those on campus, evidenced by the score board and its 11-7 final face. But those that witnessed the battle aren't terribly sure that the real victor's crown shouldn't go to the donkeys for putting up with the stupidity of college men.

"The Sweetheart Tree" was the theme of the annual Collecto Coeds-Intercollegiate Knights sponsored ball held February 17, 1968 in the Dining Commons. The semi-formal event, traditionally co-sponsored by the above named groups, was effectively decorated for the winter formal—this year decked out with a Valentine flair.

Co-chaired by Patti Prusak and Randy Denley, the dance featured the Gotham City Municipal Swing Band, a campus group that doubles as the Pep Band for basketball games.

The dance is held to honor the sweetheart selected by the two sponsoring organizations. Five senior boys were selected by Collecto Coeds as finalists for their sweetheart; Bill Caddy, Al Mueller, Bob Opperman, Royce Mosgrove, and Bob De Jardin. IK's likewise chose five finalists, pretty senior misses; Archie Hazelton, Marilyn McCasland, Earlyn Kraft, Diane Gambit, and Judy Salvey. The final choices, announced during an intermission at the dance, were real sweethearts—Bob DeJardin and Judy Salvey.

Woofettes was first organized in the fall of 1965 as a pep club type marching unit. Most of the first members were freshmen. The organization limits membership to 25 girls, chosen for their rhythmic ability and creativity.

This year, Woofettes, under president Kathe Patterson performed at many campus functions. They provided entertainment at the Homecoming half time show with a dance number to "Thoroughly Modern Millie" and also appeared during the Dad's Day and Folk's Festival programs.

The group has been quite successful in their performances and have added much in the way of entertainment to basketball half times.

Functions of a group like this are very important. Campus visitors may watch these spirited and talented girls and come away with an impressive assessment of the school because of such extracurricular groups as this.

The OCE Drama Department attempted the difficult Chekhovian drama, "The Three Sisters," as its Winter Term play. The drama, involving little action or excitement, demanded that strong characterizations carry the story. Part of the requirement was met.

The members of the audience who saw the play during its seven day run and had difficulty following the character development or understanding the plot undoubtedly thought the production too long and unquestionably boring. The members of the audience, however, who caught the mixture of comedy and tragedy reflected in the helpless, stumbling characters evoking both pity and laughter found the drama effectively done.

The play lacked most understanding by its viewers and playgoers who come to the college productions to be entertained were probably dissatisfied with "The Three Sisters."

Folks Festival is the day set aside for Parent's visitation to the campus. Both mothers and fathers are honored guests for a preview and review of the college. "OCE Today" was the theme of the 1968 Folks Festival. Chairman for the annual event was Alesanne Butzin, a junior from Hood River.

A variety of activities were planned for Folks Festival this year, but only 212 parents were present to enjoy them. The attendance is average and pathetic. Why are these parent events such failures? A lot of hard work goes into planning a calendar for the parents. The Dean's office notifies the parents of the planned visitation and co-sponsors one parent day each term; Dad's Day, Fall term; Folks Festival, Winter term; and Mom's Day, Spring term. But probably more is needed than just a letter from the Deans. Do you as students take time to extend a special invitation to your parents? Maybe this would help the attendance at the annual parents visitations.

The 1968 Folks Festival gave parents a glimpse of what is happening at OCE today. It is unfortunate that more parents did not benefit from this glimpse.

Winter term band activities consisted of Pep Band performances at basketball games, and a Concert Band tour throughout Oregon. With the onslaught of Spring term, Band concerts moved outside for the annual Twilight concerts, except when rain prevented. The Band also performed for students and their families on Parent Visitation days.

IK's also sponsored several other informal campus dances, held a talent show, helped distribute pamphlets in favor of Ballot Measure #3 in Salem, and led campus tours for parents attending parent visitation days.

Other Intercollegiate Knight officers for this year included: Earl Randy Denley, Chancellor Byron Darr, Scribe Pat Miller, Horrible Executioner Roger Zumwalt, Page Master Larry VanDusen and Rick Bartow, and Expansion Officer Dan Gatti.

ANTIGONE is a Greek tragedy written by Sophocles, one of ancient Greece's greatest playwrights. The play is the story of man's search for wisdom.

The part of Antigone was played by Lila Matheson, an OCE freshman. The main point of the play is built around Antigone's fight for the right to bury her dead brother, Polyneices. Antigone's uncle Creon, played by Dick Folk, represents community law and the state in the play.

The set for ANTIGONE was designed by Richard Davis and Marion Rossi. Sharp-edged triangular shapes were used to bring out a feeling of conflict.

Theme "For You Mom's Day

"For You, A Daisy" was the theme given the 1968 Mom's Day, held April 27. Registration began at about 9:30 in the Student Center Lounge. Approximately 218 parents were on campus for the event. Mom's Day chairman for this year was Margaret Greer, a junior from Portland.

On tap for those attending "For You, A Daisy" was a long list of varied activities. Things got underway with a Kappi Pi art sale, a Mom's Club apron sale, and a Dad's Club pen sale. Parents and students were given the opportunity to attend a presentation on the History of the Pacific Northwest by Dr. Kenneth Holmes, or a presentation by Mary Jo Heidel on Wigs and Wiglets and Flower Arranging presented by Mrs. Hazel Bartlett.

Activities also included a double header baseball game (OCE vs. EOC), informal open house in all dormitories, campus tours, an OCE Band Concert, a parent-student-faculty Coffee Hour, a Men's and Women's Fashion Show, Powder Puff Basketball championships, and the Elijah Oratorio.

Also scheduled was a special Mom's Day banquet held in the Dining Commons. Keynote speaker for the banquet was President Rice who spoke on "the role of the mother of a college student." Banquet entertainment included singing by Ed and Jean Walker, and by Robert Richards, and a Poetry Reading by Miss Phyllis Knight.

"For You, A Daisy" drew to a close with a dance sponsored by the senior class.

Student Council Retreat is an annual trek made by both the old and new council members at which programs are evaluated and reevaluated that are undertaken by the student governments.

This year, retreat was held at Grace Haven Lodge, at Tolavana Park near Cannon Beach. Approximately 50 old and new council members gathered to make plans for the coming school year and to discuss problems that plagued this years student officers. Resolutions by the score were made, as is typical of retreats, and many new ideas were formulated that would later need further investigation.

Retreat 1968 was considered by many to be the most successful retreat in years.

Jim White pulls on a sock that he just emptied of sand.

Marilyn McCasland powerhouses the ball as the outfield anxiously awaits the pop-up.

Retreat "Neat", Judy Coed,

The annual Faculty-Student picnic was again a large success. Many faculty members and their families attended the spring version of the twice a year event. Held at Helmick Park, the picnickers were feasted to a monmouth amount of hot dogs and pork and beans and punch and potato salad.

A rousing, spirited volleyball game with mixed faculty-student teams kept the excitement alive until the roasting fire could burn up a good flame. Then ravished faculty and student volleyballers alike camped around the blazing coals to cook their dinner.

The traditional faculty versus student softball game proved to be a rout as the student man-handled the faculty, 10-4. But one faculty slugger, Uncle Jack, was absent from the game and there's no telling how badly the students would have won by had he been there to play for the faculty.

Faculty Bombed Bob College

Judy Salvey, a senior from Parkrose High in the Parkrose district of Portland, was selected by student body vote as Betty Coed, the senior girl best typifying the All-American Coed.

Judy, the second vice-president of the student body, has been very active in campus governments of one sort or another during her four years at OCE. She has served as vice-president of Arbuthnot Hall, President of Interdorm Council, and was a Homecoming Princess of the 1966 Court.

Judy was chosen from a field of four senior girls chosen by the class presidents to vie for the honor of Betty Coed. The three nominees she bested for the role as typical senior coed were Tracy Barnes, Marilyn McCasland, and Lydia White.

Bob DeJardin, a senior from Woodburn majoring in Secondary Education Humanities, was selected by vote of the student body as Joe College, the senior boy best exemplifying the college male.

Bob, president of the campus charter of Intercollegiate Knights, has been very active also in his four years at OCE. He too served as a dorm vice-president, Maaske's. His Junior year he led his class as President and a member of student council. He headed the committee that sponsored the Junior-Senior Prom as class president.

Bob was chosen from a list of four nominees. The other three named by the class president to vie for the honor were Gregg Hamilton, Royce Mosgrove, and Bob Opperman.

Wolves Survive Take District

Pacific's Randy Douglass held the Pack to one hit in nine innings in the first game of the contest and survived a tenth innings scare to lead his teammates to a 2-1 tenth inning victory over the Wolves. Charlie Gardinier's double and Ed Melhorn's single provided one run in the bottom of the tenth.

Jim Hosek pitched the second game for the Wolves, a three-hitter, which gave the Pack the second game, 2-1, and tied the series 1-1. Gardinier singled and scored the winning run on Rod Jones's double down the left field line.

The third, and deciding game of the tourney, sent Bill Rice against the Boxer's Ken Sylvester. Steve Collette, singled in by Melhorn's hit, scored the first Wolfpack run in the bottom of the first. But the Pacific team rebounded with two runs of their own in the top of the second, but this would mark the end of their scoring. Terry Garner drove a long ball into center field, scoring three base runners, and then scored the fifth run himself on a single from Gardinier. The third and last game of the series ended 5-2. The Wolves were District Champions.

Junior-Senior Prom - Freshour Than ever

"The Sounds of the Surf" was the theme chosen by members of the Junior class as the theme for the 1968 Prom. Under the direction of President Lynn Freshour, the traditional formal affair was the highlight of the year.

The Juniors chose, as featured performers for the Prom Concert, the internationally known vocal trio, the Sandpipers, whose recording of "Guantanamero" sold over a million copies. The group has had good sales with most of their material and their distinctive styling of "Louie Louie," a long-time popular rock n roll favorite, won the group more listeners. The Sandpipers brought with them a small gallery of performers who usually tour with them. Included in the program was a vocal duo called Stormy and Sunny, two attractive young women with voices to match.

All in all, the evening was very enjoyable. The decorations were very elaborate and collegiate. It'll be hard for next year's juniors to follow in the footsteps of the Class of 69.

Why is it that with the high caliber of activities that the school can sponsor the students won't support these programs with their attendance? Homecoming this year lost around $1000 because students wouldn't support the concert choice. The Prom was successful in spite of the students. It only takes 1200 students to make these big name concerts pay off; yet 1200 seems too high a number. Because of the unwillingness to support guest entertainers, student government is forced to sponsor two concerts instead of three. A proposed winter concert featuring the Fifth Dimension was dropped because it was felt the students wouldn't support it. So if you want top name entertainment, you're going to have to prove you'll support it. Until then, student government only dare sponsor two concerts a year.

We hope this will make the student body more conscious of their role as students in bringing top name entertainers to our campus.

The juniors did a marvelous job with the decorations. The dining commons was transformed into a tropical isle. College—an elusive term that defies definition. Why? How does one define a way of life; a mode of action? There is so much to consider in trying to capture, with words, the meaning of college.

College is something different for each person. Its components may include many varying elements. Something that one person considers a definite ingredient of this term, another might not even consider. The serious-minded student's view of college might be narrowly channeled around his academic interests. The campus sporting events and activities may not offer any enjoyment to him. The fun-loving collegiate might prefer to completely disassociate himself from college outside of his class attendance and his diligent occupation with homework—possibly a couple hours every weekend. His definition of college encompasses the walks he and his girl take under a harvest moon or in the quietude of a warm spring rain. It may include the dread of choosing a shirt to iron for the campus dance from among a months pile of clean laundry. College is many things to many people. The way we view college will determine the amount of knowledge and pleasure we attain from this undefinable element.

Scholars may argue that the importance of college lies in its academic curriculum and the person that drinks deepest from the cup of knowledge will enjoy the most benefits. But college has to be more than a 3.5 grade point average . . . or most of us are reaping nothing from what we gather. It's more than reading all the assigned novels from an American Lit class.

The college community is a special cross-file of American life. It incorporates all the ingredients of a diverse society. People from all walks of life reside within these confines. The interaction among the many different people is an education in itself.

Here things can be, or at least seem, more acute. College can open the mind to reality. It can unlock the chambers of the mind that the high school never attempted to find. The results we discover are summed up much better in the relationships we have with the people around us.

Could it be that the real importance in college is the degree of exposure, the amount of absorption, and the result of those processes that one experiences about people that is the fabled "key of knowledge?"

Welcome Back

Our campus is very fortunate to have such a student-attuned faculty. Our deans are very student oriented, being little more than "students" themselves. The sense of humor that sparkles in many of the student wits also sparkles in many of the faculty.

A good illustration will explain the picture to the left. This good fun-loving guy is none other than our own Uncle Jack Morton. Imagine his shock upon returning from a trip to some far distant northland when he discovers that the door through which he used to enter his office in the Education Building is no longer a door but a wall with a coat rack adorning its facade. Imagine a verbal exchange with his riotous cohorts, but don't let your imagination run away with you. Dean Morton wouldn't say things like that! Then imagine some shuffling of furniture, one coat rack and a chair, a hand groping for paper high in the air, and then a descending swip that reveals the sign you see in the picture to the left.

And we dare suggest that our faculty members have no sense of humor. Deans do not live on dread alone!!!

Student governments Executive Council was probably the finest in years. Each of the five officers handled his job with determination and fortitude.

Bob, one of the swarm of Sandy High School students still exercising their muscles in student government, was an able and capable leader as Student Body President. Although inhumanely teased as being tyrannical by his fellow exec council members, he gave the role of president a new dimension, that of Christian brotherhood.

Marilyn was largely responsible for the rapid changeover accomplished this year because of her work with her steering committee, the CRB (Constitutional Review Board), which developed a new constitution to govern the new Senate form of government. Many pain-staking hours were spent completing this monumental task. Now a resident of California, Marilyn graduated from Centennial High of Gresham.

As head of the Elections Board and overseer of all student body elections, Judy governed a smooth working organization that gave fast and accurate returns on how the voters voted. Her bright warmth and zany sense of humor added a touch of spice to an already fun-loving exec council.

Although she came into the office of Recording Secretary in mid-year, Sandy performed efficiently as the council's note-taker. A resident of the US for a number of years, she still keeps an enchanting trace of the accent that broke many hearts when she left her native England. Sandy will serve on exec council next year as Financial secretary.

Another graduate of Centennial High, Lydia has accomplished her job as Financial Secretary with ease and accuracy. Working with a budget of $40,000 and managing almost every student government account as an accountant, she handled transactions and requisitions with valuable ability. Her know-how and quick thinking made her a valuable asset to exec council.

Arby women also participated in Powder Puff football and basketball, the All Campus Drive, and sponsored a dance Winter and Spring term. Two representatives from Arby attended the National Dormitories Conference held during Spring Vacation at Pennsylvania State.

Thomas H. Gentle Hall houses approximately one-hundred and fifty female OCE residents. The rooms are almost all four occupancy. The Hall is divided into three pods with one unit executive for every sixteen girls. The fourth pod is made up of two lounges. The lounge downstairs is used for T.V. viewing, etc., and the upstairs lounge is used for dances and other dorm functions.

Under the direction of President Dianne Morrison, a sophomore from Portland, the women of Gentle took first place in the Homecoming dorm sign competition, and second place in the All Campus Sing. All in all Gentle Hall was an active dormitory this year.

Maaske Hall

Roben J. Maaske Hall is one of the most centrally located dormitories on campus. It provides convenient living for approximately one-hundred and sixty male residents.

Although Maaske Hall did not receive any special honors this year, the men of Maaske were active in all campus activities including Homecoming and the Blood Drives.

Maaske also sponsored a Winter term dance, and a free campus dance called the "Beatnick Ball."

Todd Hall

Jessica Todd Hall, the oldest and largest living quarters on campus, houses one-hundred and seventy OCE women.

Under the direction of President Gayle DeYoung Todd Hall won the Good Housekeeping award for Fall term. With the money they received for this honor the women of Todd purchased a new stereo for the living room.

This year marked the 55th Anniversary of Todd Hall. In honor of this occasion the history of Jessica Todd Hall was published and went on sale Alumni Day 1968.

Todd Hall women also sponsored a Student-Faculty Tea, and a dance Spring term.

it was a very good year

Sports Section

The 1967-68 year for Oregon College of Education proved to be a very fruitful season. With OCE taking two district titles and four conference titles, one a co-championship, it has forced the other colleges in the conference to bow to OCE.

Fall term found the Cross Country team finishing third in conference. Two members, Carl Rodney and Arnie Powell, were the standout leaders of the team. Rodney, though only a freshman, came in first place in many of the cross country meets. Junior Arnie Powell, also a great asset to the team, came in third in the conference meet.

Football, though not having as good a year as the year before, took co-championship honors with Southern Oregon. It was a great disappointment to the Homecoming crowd when the team lost to Eastern Oregon by a mere 7-6 decision. The wolfpack was favored to win the game and so the loss came as quite a shock to many OCE fans. A game that did brighten up many OCE's though was the away game with Southern Oregon. SOC has always been one of the stronger schools, and even though the 20-7 score does not show it, it was a hard fought game for the team. Dave Sturgis, after finishing the football season, signed with the pro football team, the New Orleans Saints. At the end of the season, OCE was voted "the college exhibiting best overall sportsmanship and ethics—including team and student body."

Winter term came and saw the OCE basketball team taking second place in conference behind Southern Oregon. As the season progressed for the team, it became almost habit to break old records and set new higher ones. MVP Bob Vogel helped by setting three of the 17 new records set by the team. Usually when a freshman turns out for basketball he expects to play for the frosh team. This wasn't so for Bob Sisk. He scored 409 points this year which helped him earn the "Mr. Hustle" award.

The wrestling team, finishing the season with a 9-3 dual meet record, saw Hal Dyal, team captain, winning a trip to the national meet. Hal finished his own season with 15 consecutive wins, most of which were by pins.

Spring term was OCE's big term for sports. There were three conference titles and two district titles taken; Tennis, Baseball, and Track each took conference titles, and district titles were taken by baseball and Golf.

The tennis championship games were held on the Southern Oregon courts. Competing were OCE, SOC, EOC, and GF. Sandy Swanson won the singles championship, encountering a three set match in each of the four rounds he played. One of the three setters was with Hans Greerde of EOC in the final. The EOC netter would throw deep lobbs as Swanson came to the net which often left the eventual champion scrambling for a return. This exasperating play persisted until each had won a set 6-4. Greerde's consistency let him down in the 3rd set and Swanson's aggressiveness finally paid off. The final set score read 6-1 with Swanson walking away the winner. The doubles team of Dick Beck and Swanson reached the finals which helped to collect more valuable team points.

The track and field conference games were also held at Southern Oregon. Even though SOC had almost become perennial champions in this sport, being on their home field did not help them this time. Gene Pfiefer lead the team in scoring and in the process, anchored the first place 440 relay team, grabbed honors in the 100 and 220 yard dash, and took third in pole vault. Arnie Powell added to the track efforts by taking firsts in the one and three mile runs. Also adding with firsts were: Dan Davis, long jump; Chip Gorrell, javelin; and Jim Rehberg, high hurdles.

The baseball team ended their season with a fine win-loss record of 17-6, which won them the honors of taking the conference crown. The playoffs for the NAIA District II title were held on the home field for the wolves. At the conclusion of Friday's first game, the 2-1 score in favor of Pacific University left the Wolfpack in a somber mood; but upon winning the first game of a double header on Saturday by a score of 1-0, the team and fans began envisioning the district title. The spirit the team had created carried over to the final game, which helped them to win the game 5-2. These two important wins gave them the district crown and the right to travel to the regional playoffs in Medford.

The golf team, even though coming in second to Southern Oregon for the conference championship, rose to a new height when they walked away from the NAIA District meet at Southern Oregon with the District crown. This important win allowed the linkers to travel to Bemidji, Minnesota for the national playoffs. Even though the team as a whole didn't reach the final matches, senior Ken Forster, did a very good job of representing OCE by placing sixth in the nation which won him an All-American rating.

Two standout members of the Cross Country team were Carl Rodney and Arnie Powell. Powell, a junior with much experience, was a great asset to the team by coming in first in many meets. Rodney, a freshman, aided the cause by keeping in step with Powell. At the conference meet, Powell showed his ability by coming in third and also helping the OCE team to place third.

This year's Wolfpack tried successfully to follow last year's Pack in taking conference. They piled up four wins against four losses to tie with Southern Oregon Raiders for first in conference.

On statistics for the whole team, the Wolves did quite well against their opponents. The Wolves averaged 21.5 points per game for a total of 172, while the opponents averaged 13.1 points per game for a 105 total.

The Wolves got 76 first downs in rushing to the opponents 52; lacked 9 to be up to the opponents 41 in passing, and had 9 first down penalties to the opponent's 10, which resulted in 117 total first downs to the Wolves, and 103 for the opponents.

All-American, Dave Sturgis, a senior from Lebanon, lead four out of the eight divisions in individual statistics. In receiving, he had 24 over Bob Ziegler's 10. Sturgis scored 8 touchdowns to Ziegler's 6, he led in interceptions with 6, and also led in punt returns with 10. Ziegler did, however, pull through in rushing with 141 attempts for a total gain of 706 yds. He also won out in returning kickoffs, taking 8 for 238 yds.

One of the major upsets of the year for the Pack was the Eastern Oregon College game. It was the first OCC loss of the year for the team. The Mountaineers scored midway in the 3rd quarter on a spectacular 58 yd. pass play from Bill Anderson to Gordon Syphees. A freshman guard, Mike Pakenkiph, kicked the extra point that proved to be the necessary victory margin. OCE scored on an eleven yd. pass from Dennis Sydow to Dave Sturgis. The kick was wide which left the score 7-6 at the final gun.

The band provides the crowd with entertainment at half time.

Wolfpack Tie For Conference Champions

Several players look on as the referees signal that the Pack has scored another touchdown.

The decisive 20-7 win over Southern Oregon's Raiders was a surprise to many OCE'rs. The Raiders are usually one of our toughest opponents, and even though the score shows that the victory was decisive the Pack had a much harder battle than it looks. SOC was the first to score midway in the second period. Oregon College retaliated with a 90 yd. kickoff return by Bob Ziegler for the Wolves only first half score. In the 3rd quarter, Jim Crump scored with Larry Koenig's PAT scoring to give the Wolves a 13-7 lead. Bob Ziegler scored the 3rd and final touchdown in the 4th quarter, on a run from 48 yds. out.

Several Wolves wait for their turn.

When the 1968 bowling season ended for the OCE keglers, the men's team managed to tie for second place in competition with Oregon State with an eleven win, thirteen loss record.

Bruce Tiedman finished second for the seasons high game average, only one point behind the University of Oregon leader. Bruce had an average of 193 for three game series.

The women keglers lacked the strength the men carried. They ended up with a six win, eighteen loss record.

Sunday, April 7, OCE found itself with four other colleges at the Rockwood Lanes for the seventh annual NAIA Bowling tournament. OCE finished third with Pacific placing first and Great Falls College placing second. For the tournament, Bill Hanson had the high scoring game with an impressive 254 points. Hanson also scored the most points for OCE. Tom Shea was the second highest scorer for OCE. These two men were also members of the district All-Star team.

Wrestling

The OCE wrestling squad finished out its regular season matches with two wins this past weekend. They defeated the University of Puget Sound 25 to 6 and neighboring Willamette 16 to 6.

Team captain Hal Dyal ran his undefeated string to 15 with a 10-9 verdict over his Puget Sound opponent.

The wrestlers lost their conference matches to Eastern Oregon, Southern Oregon, and Oregon Tech, but with a relatively young squad the grapplers should be back in contention next year. They finished the season with an 8-3 record.

Varsity Basketball

The 1968 basketball season for OCE proved to be a very good year even though the team came out in second place in conference behind Southern Oregon. A total of 17 new records were set in the course of the season. To name a few, Bob Vogel broke the old scoring record of 427 with a new record of 435. Bob Sisk topped the old record for field goals with 173. Al Mueller set a new season record for most assists with 135 by breaking the old mark of 104. The pack also set a new high in scoring with a 134-105 victory over Warner Pacific. There were many more new records that were set this year, but they are too numerous to mention.

The players chosen this year for the different honors were all wisely selected by their teammates. Bob Vogel was voted Most Valuable Player. He set a single game record with 15 field goals and his career free throw accuracy mark of .805 also rated as a new record. Vogel was named to first team spots on both the District II and All-conference squads.

Al Mueller, a four year veteran, was named Honorary Captain. He set three new school records: 11 assists in a game, 135 assists in a season, and 321 in his career at OCE.

Bob Tone, a reserve last year, was voted Most Improved Player. After scoring only 14 points last year, he came on strong this season to post a 11.6 per game average.

The "Mr. Hustle" award went to a freshman from Eugene, Bob Sisk. Sisk scored 409 points, which is the most ever by an OCE frosh.

The Most Inspirational award this year was given posthumously to Bruce Bradshaw. Bruce was fatally injured when he struck his head against the court wall in a game with Eastern Oregon at La Grande.

Junior Varsity Basketball

The JV Basketball team ended a successful season with a record of 11-9. Starting the season with a spectacular scoring efforts of 109 and 102, they tapered off to 72½ points a game.

Three of their last four games were with teams that had been considered the toughest competition of the year, Linfield and Portland University. The JV's defeated Linfield 89-71 and split with Portland, 74-73 and 67-80. In the final game of the season, they were defeated by Lewis and Clark 82-92.

At the end of the season the JV's had scored a total of 1377 points compared to the opponents' 1334. This averages to 72½ for OCE and 70 for the opponents. The highest score for OCE was when they beat Willamette 109-91. The highest score against them was 76-119 scored by Linfield.

Freshman Basketball

The OCE Frosh topped the .500 percentage by one game, winning eight and losing seven. Basically the frosh used a fast breaking offense and a zone defense. The Frosh lacking height, the tallest member being 6'1" had trouble staying with teams of superior height. The biggest win of the Frosh's season was a win against Linfield's freshman team, 102 to 90. Leading rebounder and scorer was Russell Lutz who averaged 18 points per game. Other main performers for the Frosh were Gene McCorkle, Doug Ronan, Dave Zinck, and Bill Spencer.

It's another Fast score.

Women's Basketball

The Women's Basketball program continued to grow this year as more inter-scholastic games were added to the program. More of the colleges and universities in this area are now fielding a women's team and OCE has as fine a one as can be found in the area.

This year, led by such outstanding players as Polly Melugin, Lynda Byrd, and Kay Williamson, the women had another successful season. They defeated Pacific's team at Forest grove by a 50-32 score to mark their high for the season. They lost their contests to Oregon State by increasing slender margins, where the outcome of the games were tossups until the final gun.

The team took 2nd at the OSU Sports Day event, where teams from Marylhurst, Linfield, and Portland State competed. There they lost only one game, that against Portland State by a 28-26 margin. They defeated the team from Linfield by a score of 48-22, the Marylhurst women 46-35. Polly Melugin scored 57 points in the three games to post a 19 point average per game.

Swimmers and Divers

The OCE swimmers and divers took fourth place in the District Meet held at Southern Oregon. Gary Yung, a second year man on the team, garnered over one-third of the total team points by placing second in the 100 yard breast-stroke, third place in the 200 yard breast-stroke, and 4th place in the free-style relay. Southern Oregon won the District Championship.

Other OCE swimmers and their places of finish in their events were: Bob Wienert, fourth place in the 1650 yard free-style and 4th in the relay; Dave Voves, fourth place in the 100 yard back-stroke, fifth place in the 200 yard back-stroke, and 4th in the relay; Jim Patterson, a 4th place in relay.

Diving events were also featured at the meet and OCE was represented by Dan Gaither, who took 4th place in overall points, and Kelly Carroll, who took 6th in overall standings.

The men's team was staffed with experienced swimmers who had competed for the team before. Only four had not lettered. The roster included Yung, Voves, Wienert, Patterson, Jim Kiesel, Dale Wilkie, John Wienert, Gaither, and Carroll.

The women's team, on the other hand, was almost entirely new. Only two returning swimmers, Angie Deffenbaugh and Paula Worthington, remained from last year's team. Eight new women have turned out for the team, five of whom swim a variety of strokes. They are Jean Cecil, Chris Scharinghausen, Sue Snyder, Jean McKenzie, and Carol Hesselman. Other members are free stylist Helen White and Carol Jespersen and back-stroker Chris Peterson. Sue Snyder also serves as a diver.

Men's Tennis

Swanson Wins OCC Singles Crown

The tennis championship games were held on the Southern Oregon courts. Competing were OCE, SOC, Eastern Oregon College and George Fox. Sandy Swanson won the singles championship, encountering a three set match in each of the four rounds he played. One of the three setters was with Hans Greerde of EOC in the final. The EOC netter would throw deep lobs as Swanson came to the net which often left the eventual champion scrambling for a return. This exasperating play persisted until each had won a set 6-4. Greerde's consistency let him down in the 3rd set and Swanson's aggressiveness finally paid off. The final set score read 6-1 with Swanson walking away the winner. The doubles team of Dick Beck and Swanson reached the finals which helped to collect more valuable team points. The final scores were OCE 14, SOC 10, EOC 9, and GF 5.

Janet Federici

Janet Federici, no. 1 singles on the women's team, led her teammates to a respectable season finish. The women lost several close matches including narrow losses to Oregon State and University of Oregon.

Four players, Miss Federici, Rosalie Dennis, Pam Pillette and Charlene Freitag attended an invitational tournament at the University of Idaho at Moscow where the leading women's college players came from throughout the pacific northwest to compete. The women made a respectable showing, the doubles team losing in the semi-finals.

After coming in second in conference behind Southern Oregon, OCE did a very good job of representing the Oregon Collegiate Conference by grabbing the District II trophy and also placing two men on the All-District team. They were Jerry Weis and Ken Forester. Forester, a senior, led the team and other opponents in strokes by making a 147. The next closest was a 151. Having the lowest score led Forester to be named District Medalist Winner. At the end of the year, Forester was awarded the highest honor in the district. He was named the NAIA District II Athlete of the Year.

With the team capturing the District II title, it also awarded them the chance to travel to Bemidji, Minnesota for the national playoffs. The team as a whole fared to to as well, but Ken Forester continued his winning ways. He was rated sixth in the nation, which also won him an All-American rating.

The softball team this year did a very good job of representing OCE. The team finished the season with a 5-2 win-loss record. They defeated George Fox twice, Pacific University and University of Oregon. They also split two games with Oregon State, OCE and OSU winning one game. The beating of OSU was a significant game to the girls and to OCE, because of the fact that it was the first time OCE has beaten OSU in six years. Like the women's track team, lots of schools don't have traveling softball teams that participate with other schools so the competition is limited.

The pitchers and catchers for the team did very good jobs which deserve recognition. The pitchers were Rena Lee and Laura Lee Hatcher, and the catchers were Linda Byrd and Stephanie Bates.

Combine the talents of pitcher Rod Jones, catcher Ed Melhorn, third baseman John Hoffert, short stop Charlie Gardinier, second baseman Steve Collette, and outfielder Terry Garner, not to mention the rest of the team, and you come up with one of the best baseball teams OCE has had for many years. Under the coaching of Joe Caligure, the pack made their way to the top to take conference with a 17-6 win-loss record. The playoff for the district championship was held on the OCE field with the wolves playing Pacific University. After barely losing the first game 1-0, the pack came back on Saturday to take district honors by beating the Boxers in a double header 1-0 and 5-2.

After the district playoffs, the team traveled to Medford for the Area I baseball playoffs. It was the first appearance for the wolfpack. In the first game, the wolves met Central Washington State, the representative from District 1. The wolves suffered a 9-0 setback to the wildcats. In the second game, a contest would eliminate one team from the playoffs, the Wolves defeated the District IV representative, Eastern Montana. Then the Wolves kept alive their chance for a try at the championship with a win of California Western, the loser of the second round game with Central Washington. In the championship game against the team that defeated them in the first round, the Wolves lost a seventh inning lead and suffered a 9-7 loss in the championship game.

Womens Track & Field

The OCE Women's Track and Field team this year fared to do too well, but considering the competition they were up against, it isn't any wonder. Actually, not many schools have a regular women's track team that participates with other schools, and so OCE was limited to compete with Portland State, Oregon State, and University of Oregon. The only time they competed against any other school was at the different invitational track meets. This year, OCE was host to the Oregon Collegiate State Track Meet where nine different schools participated. OCE did fairly well, finishing third in competition. At the Seattle Pacific Northwest District Track Meet, they didn't do quite as well. Out of ten participating schools, OCE finished in sixth place.

The track and field team proved to be one of the stronger sports this year. Besides taking honors in the Conference, many records were set in which individual performers were recognized for their abilities. At the conference meet, Gene Pfeifer contributed 19 points to the winning total of 111½ and in the process anchored a first-place effort in the 440 relay. He also won the 100 and 220 and finished third in the pole vault. Arnie Powell supported the scoring with wins in the one and three mile runs. All together OCE took eight firsts out of a possible 15. Other first place finishers included: Chip Gorrell, the javelin; Dan Davis, the long jump; and Jim Rehberg, the high hurdles.

At the District Track Meet, OCE placed third behind Lewis and Clark and Southern Oregon. Even though the 440-relay team composed of Rehberg, Pfeifer, Bill Humphries, and Gary Painter set a new school record, of 42.9, it was only good enough for a third place finish.

Wolves Nab Conference Crown At OCC Contest

Chip Gorrell goes over to win the pole vault.

Bob Sisk improves his form on the high jump.

Gary Painter finishes first in the 220.

The victory in the OCC meet was significant to the track team and to OCE. It seemed it had almost become traditional for Southern Oregon to win the conference title in track until this year. Coach Spinass, upon leading the pack to the 111½-104½ conference victory, was named the track coach of the year.

President Leonard Rice

What are the qualities of a good teacher? This question can only be explored, not answered, for there is no single mold.

The first quality I suggest for exploration is capacity to give oneself enthusiastically to the task. Some call it "commitment."

Second is capacity for independence. A good teacher is a competent professional who can be trusted to take initiative without directions and make decisions without close supervision.

Third is sensitivity to the people about him and enough concern to care about their feelings and needs. He does not insist upon establishing the terms of the human contract all by himself.

Fourth is generosity in dealing with the motivations and actions of others. He is not a shallow or foolish person who trusts without discrimination, but he is generous enough and courageous enough to take a few risks.

Fifth is capacity to experience failure without being weakened by it. He is wise enough to be aware of limitations, including his own; to know that ideals are sometimes frustrated; and to understand that justice cannot always be defined, let alone realized.

Sixth is personal cultivation. His mind is disciplined and informed. His tastes, his language, and his life style reflect aesthetic judgment and respect for his own unique capacity.

Seventh is good humor, the kind that will keep him from taking himself too seriously, that will cause others to enjoy his company, and that will occasionally enable him to laugh even himself out of folly.

A Tribute

Mr. Ellis Stebbins

Ellis Stebbins, dean of administration, will end forty years of service to our campus June 30. Mr. Stebbins, who began his career at OCE in 1928 when he filled in for the regular secretary, has since then served under seven college presidents and, for a time, served as head of OCE himself.

He has had first-hand evidence of the school's growth, having served here while our campus was only a two-year school. He has seen its enrollment at 117 students, during the depression and war years, and at 2800 students, during the last year of school.

Mr. Stebbins service to our school has been inestimable and it can truly be said that OCE will never quite be the same without him.

A "pass-fail" grading system was recommended by the Faculty Senate which will allow a student to take any course outside the general education requirements or the student's declared major on the pass-fail basis. The same courses may also be taken for the usual letter grade, with the student choosing between the two grading systems during the registration period of each term. After this deadline, a student will not be allowed to change from one system to another.

The term "pass" has been stipulated to be equivalent to the letter grade D or better under the current system.

The new system grew out of recommendations by the Faculty Senate Pass-Fail Committee, chaired by Dr. Richard Scott. The committee formulated a number of proposals regarding pass-fail grading, based on ideas of students, faculty, and administrative personnel at OCE, as well as an investigation of systems in other colleges and universities.

Several "College Planning Exercises" were held last fall to give students and faculty the opportunity to meet and discuss possible changes in the grading system. From a number of proposals discussed at these exercises, the Pass-Fail Committee drew up a final list to present to the Faculty Senate.

The pass-fail system has been adopted on a provisional basis for one year, beginning with this year's Summer Session. A review of the system will be undertaken at the end of the one-year period, with any possible extension of the system depending on the results of that review.

The Constitutional Review Board was incorporated into student government several years ago as one of the steps in a long haul towards a student senate setup. Its purpose was basically to see that the constitution of ASOCE was workable and working.

This year, the CRB, under the direction of Marilyn McCasland, First Vice-President of the student body, undertook the task of completely revamping student government through the development of a new constitution, which was passed during winter term. For the remainder of the year, the CRB served to interpret, evaluate, and resolve any questions which arose about the new constitution. It instituted several mock senate sessions and attempted to help student government to adjust to its new role. The duties of the CRB under the new constitution have been incorporated into the Judicial Board.

The members of this committee deserve recognition for their work in giving ASOCE its new constitution. They are: Carolyn Hill, Claudia Morrow, Donna Ahern, Dave Newton, Mike Holland, Mike Smith, and chairman Marilyn McCasland.

Thirty senior men and women were named to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities during fall term. The number chosen for this honor is set at 10% of the number in the graduating class and the selections are made by a faculty-student committee.

This year, twenty women and ten men were chosen to represent OCE in the annual publication. The awards were presented to the following students: Tracy Barnes, Cathy Boothby, Donna Buck, Carolyn Cooke Wade, Dob DeJardin, Andrea DeJong, Hal Dyal, Carol Evans, Jeanne Fowler, Bertha Kimura, Judy Kolb, Kathy Harris Kuffner, Ken Lathen, Linda Logan, Patty Benton Mause, Marilyn McCasland, Phyllis McIntosh, Bob Opperman, Judith Japs Parmley, Dean Pindell, Jerry Pratton, Norah Davenport Pratton, Judith Salvey, Carl Shinkle, LaMont Simmons, Roselyn Studenicka, Larry Sydon, Bob Vogel, Lydia White, and Kay Williamson.

Under the direction of Royce Mosgrove, the senior class participated in a variety of events. They presented the annual Senior Shindig in March and sponsored several dances during the year. With the arrival of Spring term and the onslaught of graduation activities, the Seniors chose their graduation announcements and discussed the class gift.

During the last term, Diane McFadden, the class Vice-President, represented the seniors on Student Council because the President was unable to attend the meetings because of a schedule conflict.

President Lynn Freshour

Lynn Freshour and his fine staff of Junior class officers deserve a great deal of credit for the high quality of activities sponsored by the classes.

Beginning with the class Carnival in the Fall, the juniors continually showed creativity and originality, plus fine workmanship, in presenting their money-making projects. The Dry Night Club, presented as their all school Winter money-raising affair, the juniors initiated a total new concept in this traditional class project by staging continuous entertainment throughout the evening.

The Prom was the highlight of the year and it successfully capped the close of the junior-sponsored events.

Because of the ambition and energy of its president, Lynn Freshour, the class responded with enthusiastic cooperation. Every event planned brought out juniors willing to help their class raise money for the Prom. When Spring term approached, the juniors had raised approximately $1,000 for their Prom treasury. It will be hard for future classes to follow their lead.

The juniors were undoubtedly the outstanding class of the year.

Class of 70

Getting off on the wrong foot when three of their officers were forced to resign because of low grade points, the freshmen picked a new slate to replace the old and went on to sponsor successful candy sales and dances.

The class council was asked to try, on an experimental basis, a student senate which would include representatives from each of the living groups. The Student Council made the request because the student government change over they were going to work on included a student senate.

Dave Penney, elected at the beginning of Fall term as class President, got the ball rolling by writing a class constitution that included a student senate. His hard work in organizing the structure of the constitution probably helped account for his failure to maintain a "responsible" grade point.

Sgt. at arms Mike Muldoon and Vice-President Marlie Russell

Why not give freshman officers the benefit of the doubt? Why take their class positions away from them because they fail, during their first term at school, to maintain a 2.0. Upper class officers are allowed to go on pro and still maintain their offices. Keep the requirements for the office uniform. Either take away all offices from those that fail to maintain a 2.0 each term, or allow everyone a second chance.

The Review has come to an end. The pictures that help retell the story of OCE 1968 have been seen. Some have stirred the flame of memory into a new blaze. One can relive his participation in an event anew through the thoughts one encounters while gazing through this book. It is our hope that we have recaptured your year and all its memories for you.

Looking back, one will remember the people that played an important part in his education, his activities and his leisure. One may also recall special times like the dances, the plays, or the athletic contests that OCE fared so well in. In years to come, we hope that this book will retain the magic that we hope exists within it now for you.

The OCE Hymn

Live OCE in majesty and might,
Thou hast emerged in splendor from thy night.
Past storm and strife, thou dost in triumph reign;
And proudly floats our banner free, free from stain.

Noble and strong, thy sons and daughters are;
All walks of life have felt thy fervent power.
Thy record casts a radiance o'er thy name,
A lasting tribute to thy aim, thy worthy aim.

Beloved school, we pray thou e'er may stand
To guide aright our earnest teacher band;
That Oregon may see her future youth
Imbued with wisdom and with truth, eternal truth.

The yearbook has been a big task, enjoyable and very worthwhile, but nevertheless a big task. And with this task of recapturing your year, OCE 1968, has come much hard work. Many people have helped research this work and recapture this year. To all of them I am extremely grateful. But special thanks must be given to a few, who gave of their time above and beyond the call of duty.

Jan Sassaman and Dan Borntrager are of that special breed that know no end to work until it is done. Their help and encouragement have been unestimable.

Wally Johnson, our advisor, has been a valuable spiritual spring board. When everything was seemingly wrong, he made me see that there was still something going right.

To these three people I owe special gratitude.

There never was a good war or a bad peace.

Benjamin Franklin

We live in a troubled and confused world. People the world over are treading softly, nervously awaiting the next trouble spot to erupt; all wondering what internal problem will explode in their midst and shatter their mask of pseudo-complacency. As Americans, we too face the unexpected eruption of some suppressed mushrooming monster of tension and hatred. The summer of 1967 saw racial bloodshed engulf many of our major cities. When will we find the peace we desperately seek?

Opinions founded on prejudice are always sustained with the greatest violence.

Lord Francis Jeffrey
